

Successful continuation of the German-French Know-how transfer for the automotive industry

Saarbrücken/Metz, October 16th, 2007. On November 15th and 16th, 2007 the fourth automotive forum "AKJ Automotive France" themed „Challenges in the logistics and Know-how transfer“ will take place at Esidtec Technopole in Metz (France).

In the course of the two days conference experts and representatives of the automotive industry will discuss procedures, solutions and „best practice“ solutions around the reorganisation of the supply chain between OEM, supplier and service provider. The conference will be completed on November 16th, 2007 by best practices and discussions on site at SMART and ThyssenKrupp Presta France.

Experts and managers of automotive manufacturers, suppliers and service providers will use this forum to compare their strategies, structures and processes as well as for further development of strategic and operational growth of their companies.

AKJ Automotive France was established in 2003. At AKJ Automotive France a group of experts and executives from logistics and production management of the automotive and supplier industry work on new solutions for efficiency and profitability.

The aim of AKJ Automotive France is the mutual improvement of efficiency in the whole supply chain within the company and between partners. Agreed topics are executed from the members within a AKJ working year and prepared for the annual conference. AKJ Automotive France is a member of the main organization „AKJ Automotive Group“ with its headquarter in Saarbrücken. Further members of the main organization are „AKJ Germany“ as head organization, „AKJ México“ and „AKJ Ungarn“.
